EJW
ECON JOURNAL WATCH
Scholarly Comments on Academic Economics

Econ Journal Watch

Scholarly Comments on Academic Economics

Volume 23, Issue 2, September 2026

COMMENTS

Whimsy and Fragility in the "China Shock" Narrative: A Comment on Autor, Dorn, and Hanson (2013)
Joseph Francis 266–287

An Article in Science on Wet-Market Covid Origins is Unreliable
Michael B. Weissman 288–310

The Ongoing Fall from Grace of the Fama-French and Momentum Factors
Michael Christopher O'Connor 311–342

Deep Learning as a Projection Method for Solving Economic Models
Kenneth L. Judd and Karl Schmedders 343–361

The Pretence of Planning Digital Public Goods
John Levendis 362–377

Greening on the Edge: A Critical Reappraisal of Reza-Gharehbagh and Pullman
Marco M. Sorge 378–383

ECONOMICS IN PRACTICE

On Haavelmo's Adoption of Neyman-Pearson Theory
Tom Engsted 384–412

Where Credit is Due
Alexis Akira Toda 413–427

INTELLECTUAL TYRANNY OF THE STATUS QUO

Denmark's Bad Housing Policy Begins: 1939–1945
Jens Hansen 428–484

INVESTIGATING THE APPARATUS

After SFFA v. Harvard: Predictions that Didn't Come True
David Kane 485–508

WATCHPAD

Are Chatbot Validations of Mathematical Economics Valid?
Alexis Akira Toda 509–522

Book-manuscript symposium: Gregory Clark on genetics and social mobility

The Torrents of Data: Floods of Genealogy, Freshets of Remaining Questions
Rosalind Arden and Robert Plomin 523–533

To Know and Know Not: Human Genetics and the Limits to Inference
John Benning 534–540

Who's Afraid of Gregory Clark?
Noah Carl 541–544

For Clark's Consideration: Genotypic Population Stratification and Non-Additive Genetic Effects
Nikolai Haahjem Eftedal 545–553

Survival of the Richest
Joseph Francis 554–555

On Clark's Book on the Determinants of Social Status in England, 1600–2026
Charles Murray 556–561

Overreaching on Genes
Jan Stuhler 562–572

To Have and Have Not: Response to Commentators
Gregory Clark 573–603